Sponsoring OAK's Annual Farming Conference

Now in its 15th year, OAK's annual conference convenes hundreds of farmers, graziers, agricultural professionals, researchers, resource providers, local food advocates and more who are working to advance organic and regenerative agriculture in Kentucky.

Farmers from a range of farm sizes and experience gather to share knowledge about organic production, build community and shape Kentucky's organic and local food movement.

The conference welcomes sponsors from suppliers to resource providers and more who wish to engage with OAK's growing community. Please note: the total number of sponsorships and at each tier are limited.

Attendee Background: OAK 2025

2025 Conference Attendees

382 attendees

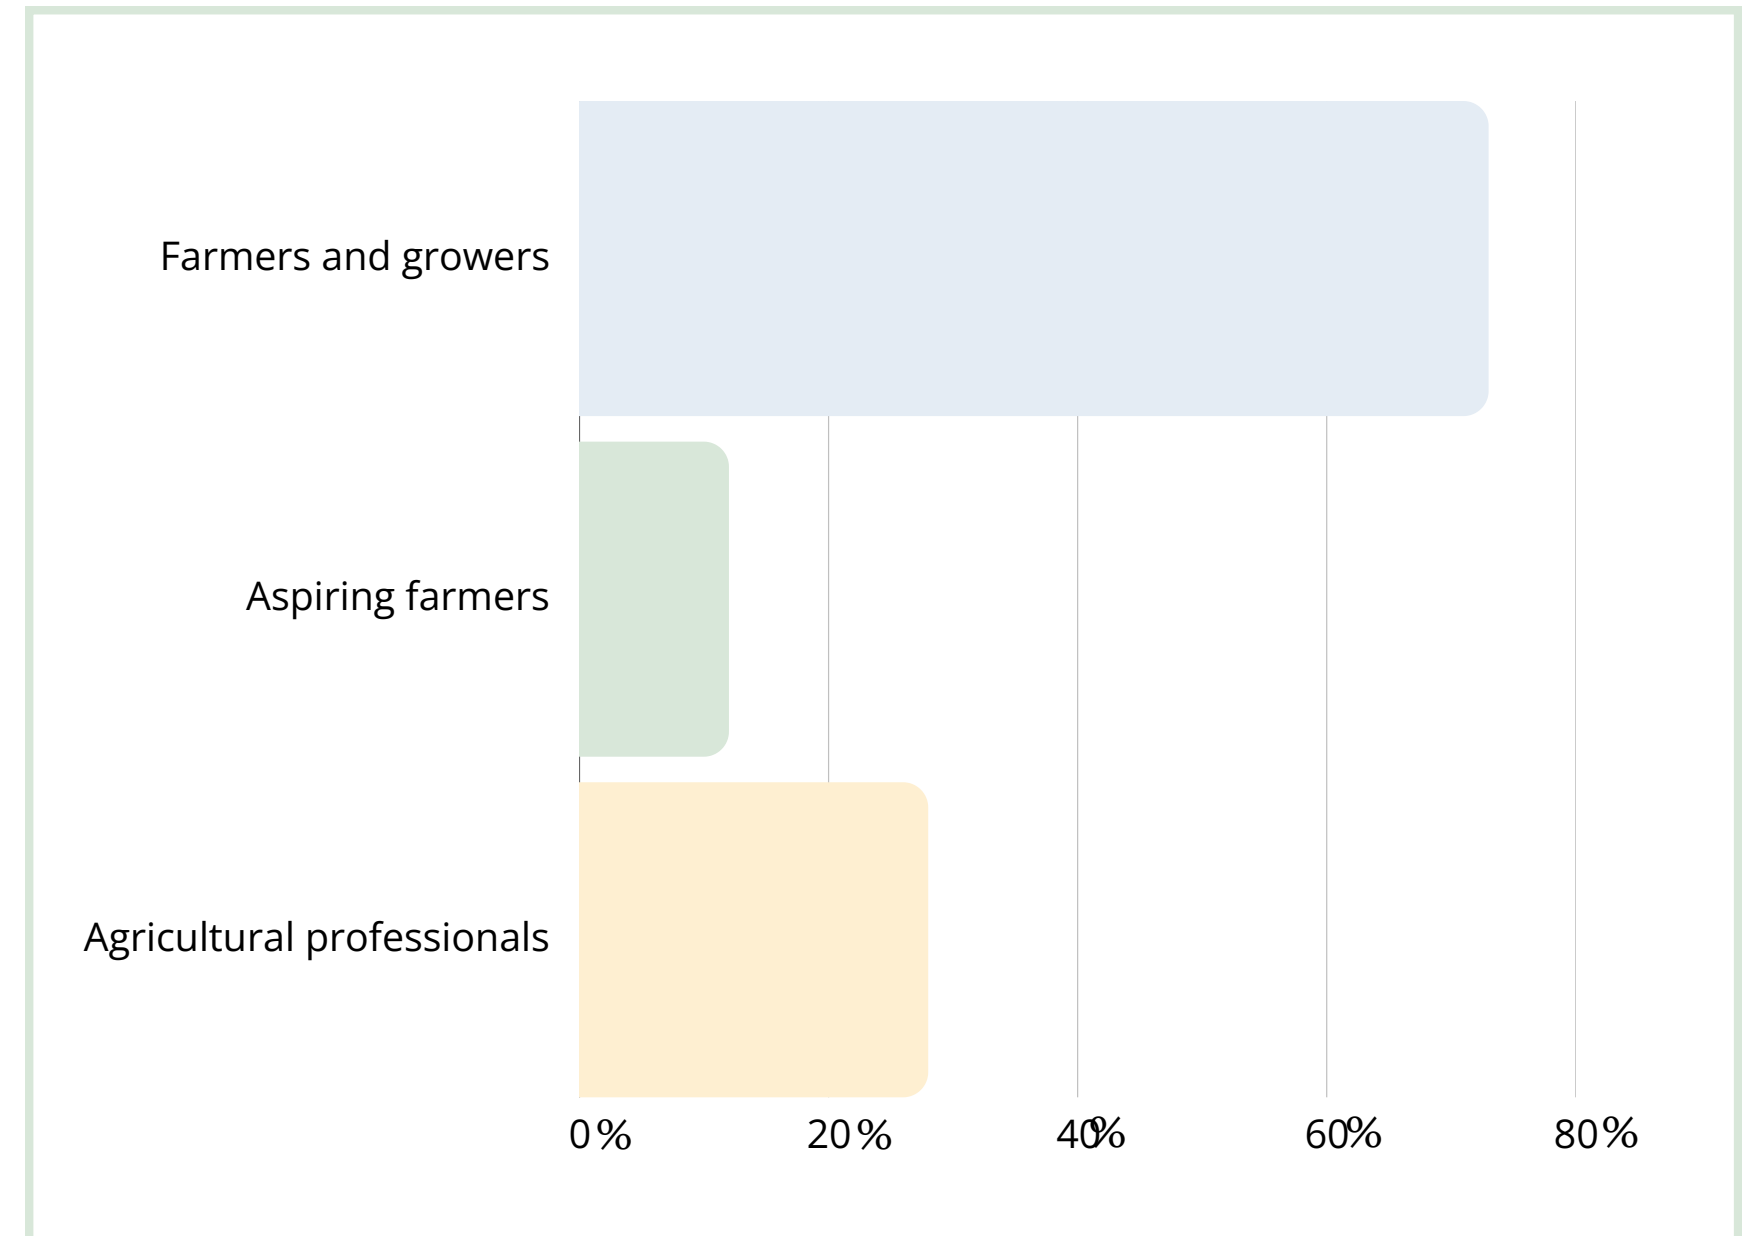

73% farmers and growers

64% beginning farmers (< 10 years)

28% ag professionals

61% younger than 45

92% will implement practices they learned at the conference to meaningfully advance their work

OAK Conference 2026 promises to be a fantastic event.
Here's what sponsors shared after the event this year:

*"Trade Show engagement is superior to other conferences we attend
+ our services/content appears to be very relevant to OAK attendees."*

"Really high level of engagement. Having the tradeshow immediately outside the presentation rooms is undeniably helpful in forcing those tables in front of peoples' faces."
