Sponsoring OAK's Annual Farming Conference

OAK's annual conference, now in its 16th year, convenes hundreds of farmers, graziers, agricultural and food system professionals, researchers, resource providers and more who are working to advance organic and regenerative agriculture in Kentucky.

Farmers of all types and experience levels gather to share knowledge about organic production, build community and shape Kentucky's organic and local food movement.

The conference welcomes sponsors from suppliers to resource providers and more who wish to engage with OAK's growing community.

Please note: the total number of sponsorships and at each tier is limited.

Attendee Background: OAK 2026

2026 Conference Attendees

327 attendees

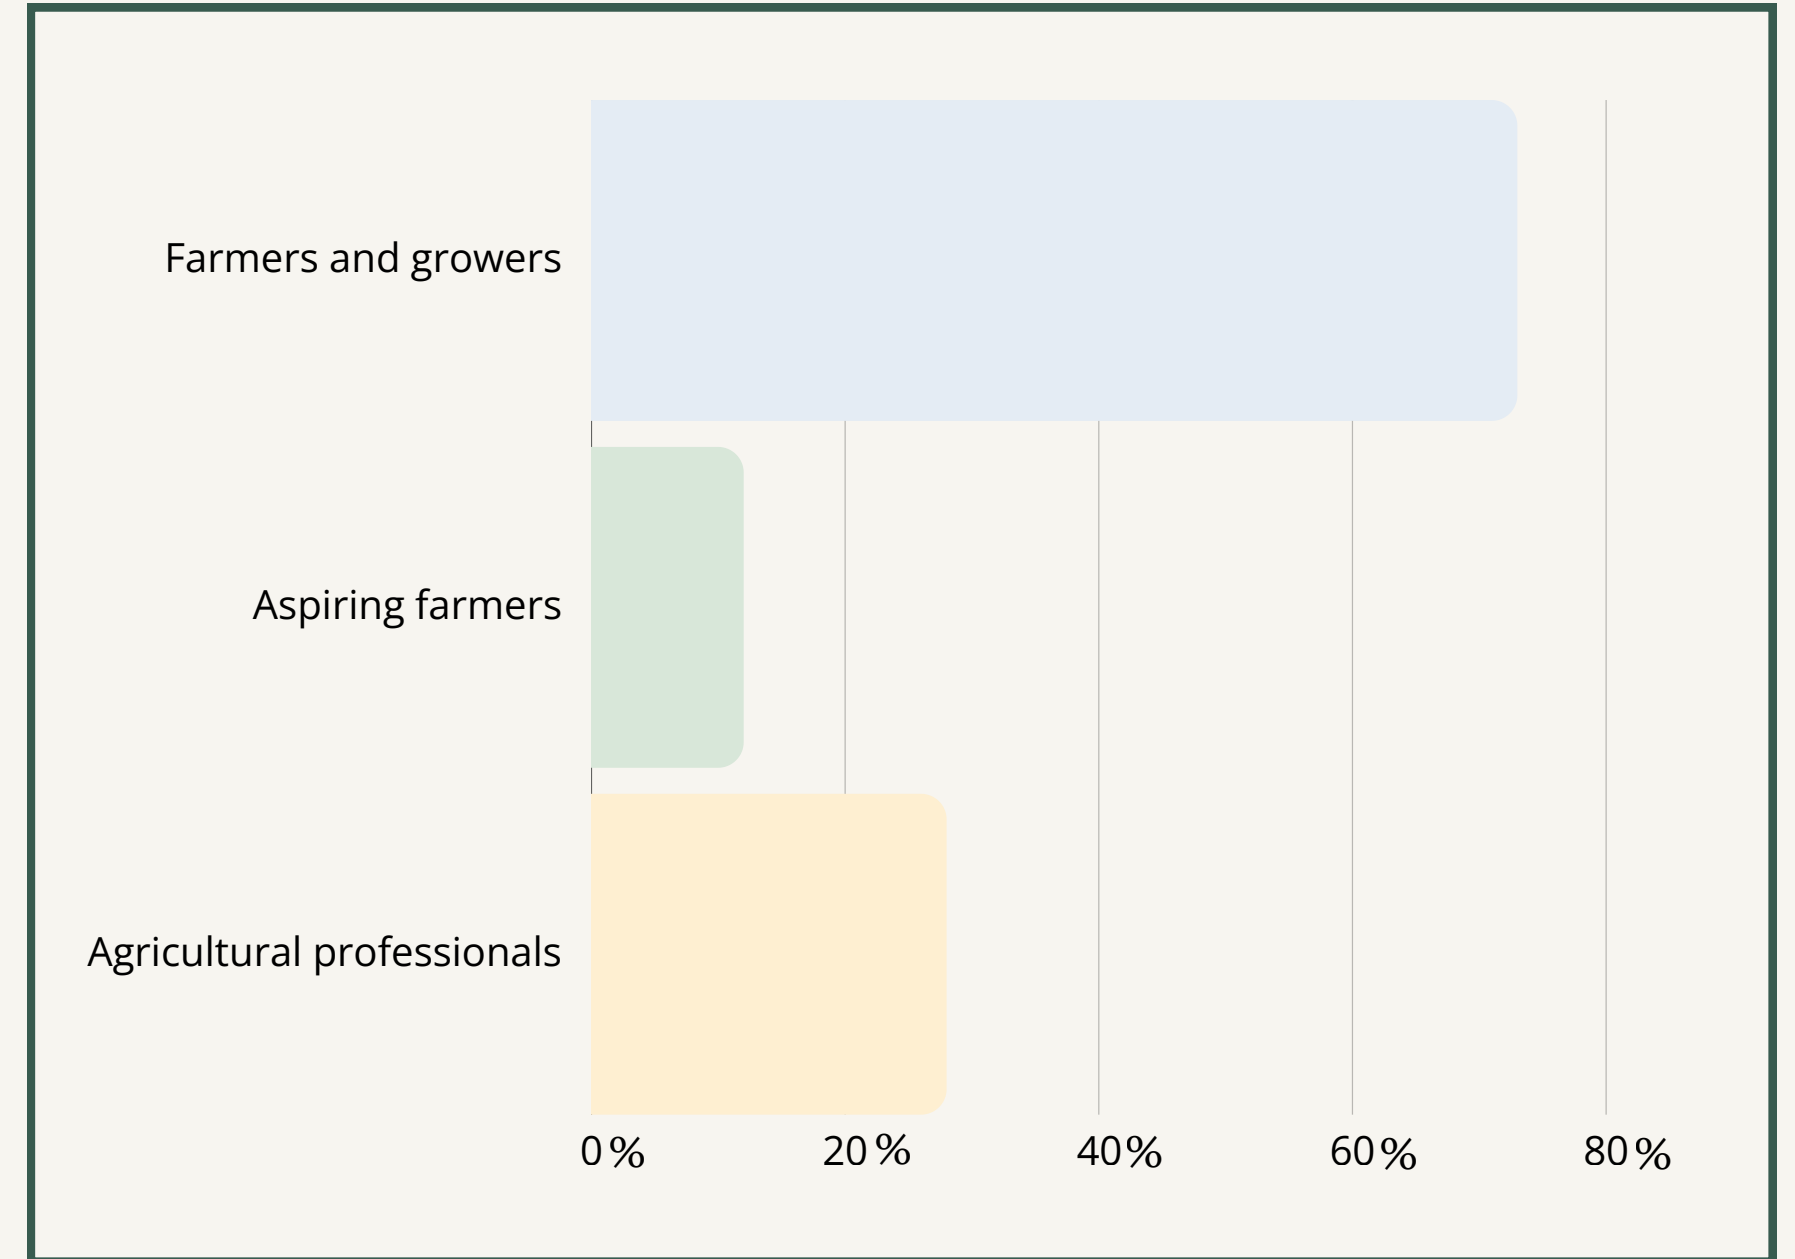

76% farmers and growers

64% beginning farmers (< 10 years)

46% organic or in transition

24% ag professionals

95% will implement practices they learned at the conference to meaningfully advance their work

OAK Conference 2027 promises to be a fantastic event.
Here's what sponsors shared about past conferences:

“Trade Show engagement is superior to other conferences we attend + our services/content appears to be very relevant to OAK attendees.”

“Great attendees and more useful sessions than many other conferences of this type.”

“Really high level of engagement. Having the tradeshow immediately outside the presentation rooms is undeniably helpful in forcing those tables in front of peoples' faces.”
